

Corrigendum to

“The impact of a seasonally ice free Arctic Ocean on the temperature, precipitation and surface mass balance of Svalbard” published in The Cryosphere, 6, 35–50, 2012

J. J. Day^{1,2}, J. L. Bamber¹, P. J. Valdes¹, and J. Kohler³

¹School of Geographical Sciences, University of Bristol, Bristol, UK

²RIGC/JAMSTEC, Yokohama Institute for Earth Sciences, Yokohama, Japan

³Norsk Polarinstitutt, Polar Environment Centre, Tromsø, Norway

Correspondence to: J. J. Day (jday@jamstec.go.jp)

We regret that there was a numerical error in the published version of our article. In the second paragraph of the abstract, the sentence “This experiment results in a 3.5 m water equivalent increase in Svalbard’s SMB compared to the present day.” is incorrect.

The corrected sentence is:

“This experiment results in a 0.35 m water equivalent increase in Svalbard’s SMB compared to the present day.”